FIGHT AGAINST TOBACCO TRUST

Final Efforts of Government to Dissolve Corporation.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—The final contest over the dissolution of the American Tobacco corporations began today in the supreme court of the United States.

History of Case.
The suit under the Sherman antitrust law to dissolve the so-called "Tobacco trust" was instituted in 1907 in the circuit court of the United States for the southern district of New York.
The proceedings were brought by the department of justice against more than 60 corporations and a number of individual defendants headed by James B. Duke.

The process of organization of the combination alleged to be unlawful spread over many years. It began in January, 1890. Then the first American Tobacco company was incorporated for the purpose, it is alleged, of taking over the business of five independent cigarette plants.

In 1898, the Continental Tobacco company was incorporated for the alleged purpose of taking over the plug-tobacco business of the American Tobacco company, and the business of five other plug tobacco concerns.

In 1901, the American Cigar company was incorporated for the alleged purpose of taking over the snuff business of the American Tobacco company and of two or three independent snuff manufacturers.

In 1901, the American Cigar company
was incorporated for the alleged purpose of taking over the cigar business of the American Tobacco company and an independent manufacturer of cigars.

In the same year, the Consolidated Tobacco company was incorporated for the alleged purpose of taking over as a holding company in exchange for its stock, all of the stock of the American Tobacco company and the Continental Tobacco company.

In 1903, the American Stogie company was incorporated for the alleged purpose of taking over the business of the American Cigar company, the American Tobacco company and the Continental Tobacco company.

In 1904, the American Tobacco company was incorporated for the alleged
the American Cigar company, the American Tobacco company and the Continental Tobacco company.

In 1902 entered into a contract with a British company, the Imperial Tobacco company, whereby the American companies were limited in their business to America, and the British company was limited in its business to Great Britain, except that the latter could buy leaf tobacco in the United States.

It was alleged that the British-American Tobacco company was organized to take over the export business of both the British and the American companies.

Proof of a Trust.
Testimony was presented to prove that the defendants produced a percent of the smoking tobacco made in this country; 73 percent of the cigarettes; 81 percent of the plug and tobacco; 81 percent of the fine cut tobacco; 89 percent of the little cigars; 96 percent of the snuff; 95 percent of the tin foil and most of the tobacco extracts, boxes and containers.

Three of the four judges on the circuit bench, sitting in this case, dismissed the petition as to the Imperial company and the British-American company, and the United Cigar company, which was limited to the business of the organization. This action formed one of the grounds for appeal by the government to the supreme court.

The decree adjudged the other defendants to be parties to an unlawful combination, but said nothing about the monopolizing charges. This failure furnished another ground for appeal by the government. The American Tobacco company, the American Cigar company, the American Tobacco company, the American Cigar company, P. Lorillard company, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, the Conley & Co.
company, the American Tobacco company, in a number of specified tobacco corporations and enjoined them from acquiring the plants or business or voting the shares of and from exercising control of the business of the companies. The government was dissatisfied because the holding companies were not enjoined from collecting dividends from the subsidiary companies.

The government appealed to the supreme court because the petition for government was not dismissed in toto.

Indicted Man
Worked Here
Man Connected With Los Angeles Dynamite Explosion Was in El Paso.

M. A. Schmidt, one of the three men indicted at Los Angeles on the charge of having been connected with the Los Angeles Times explosion, worked in El Paso two years ago at the El Paso smelter, where he was paid according to A. Shedd, former general manager of the company. Schmidt came to El Paso from Chicago and was employed as a general all around mill man. When the explosion occurred he was installed at the company's mill, he said, and was of placing them and while employed at this task he broke his leg.
Schmidt left about a year ago and went to Los Angeles, where he said he was, although he left for the east.

Since the Los Angeles explosion, detectives have been quietly working on the case in El Paso and obtaining all the information possible regarding Schmidt's record here. It is said he is said to have been anarchistic in his talk and to have talked against the social scheme of things to the men employed at the sash and door mill.

FENLEY IS ACQUITTED
OF MURDER CHARGE

Judge P. H. Clarke returned Friday morning from Ft. Davis, Jeff Davis county, where he had returned Jeff Fenley, who was acquitted of murder of Tom Bybee. He pleaded self defence. Fenley was indicted by a grand jury at Ft. Davis this week. He demanded an immediate trial.

Bybee was killed in saloon at Valentine, when, looking into a mirror, he saw Bybee enter and pull a revolver. One of the bullets from Fen-ley's gun struck the finger guard on Bybee's revolver and mashed it, preventing Bybee from shooting.
